

Storing connectors

You've just bought a nice new set of coax adapters for that new lab project. They come with some plastic caps on each end... so you take off the caps and throw them out, right?

WRONG! Those plastic thingies are called dust caps for a reason, they keep your connectors clean. Keep them as long as you keep the adapters, and your adapters will last a lot longer.